

Lecture to explore Miguel Powery's artwork

NG Lunchtime Lecture, this Wednesday

Catboat Duel, acrylic on canvas, by Miguel Powery. From the collection of the National Museum.
Photo: Submitted

The National Gallery's monthly Lunchtime Lecture will be held this Wednesday, 12.15pm at the gallery's Harbour Place location.

The lecture will focus on landscapes of Cayman painted by West Bay artist Miguel Powery, which are currently on show at the gallery's latest exhibition, Cayman: An Ever Changing Landscape. The lecture will also examine paintings by other local artists

Miguel Powery is an established senior artist from the Cayman Islands who has many of his pieces on show at the gallery. Many of his paintings focus on old Caymanian life. The exhibition draws on works from the collections of the National Gallery, National Museum and the Cayman National Cultural Foundation.

Complimentary sandwiches and refreshments will be served after the lecture. Please RSVP to nat.gal@candw.ky to ensure you are catered for. Admission is $5, free for NG members.